

2025-26 Tuition, Student Budget, and Financial Aid

Tuition and Fees for 2025-26:

After reviewing graduating student debt, tuition at other schools, our trends in tuition, and national data provided by the Association of American Medical Colleges (AAMC), tuition will be increased 3.75% to $71,080 for the 25-26 academic year.

The total tuition and fees for 25-26 will be $77,495. Fees will be $6,413. The PSOM technology fee will be increased by 3.9% (from $1,450 to $1,506) to meet the growing needs of our learners and maintain our state-of-the-art technology. The general and clinical fees are increased by 3.9% which are assumed by the University to support infrastructure, student health and behavioral health. The disability fee will remain at $55. The health insurance fee is not yet set for the 25-26 year. Please note that you are required to have health insurance either through our plan or documented coverage from another source.

Student Budget:

The budget was determined after careful investigation of costs and a detailed review of what the other professional schools on campus were considering as well as schools in the Center City area and student housing survey data.

Please note that students must live within this budget since it is not possible to approve budget increases due to personal decisions to live in excess of the student budget. We encourage you to be familiar with the entire budget.

Scholarship:

We are committed to maintaining all scholarships for students receiving school scholarship funds during MD tuition paying semesters. Students currently receiving scholarship from the school do not need to reapply. Confirmation of your financial aid award and federal loan eligibility will be available on Path@Penn – My Financial Aid in June.
